

"FIVE ON IT" INTERVIEW

This interview was part of the "Five On It" interview series, published in Birdsong#10.

1) What's the last song you listened to?

I think it was either Bitter:Sweet's "Dirty Laundry" or Robyn's "Konichiwa Bitches" – both are iPod-stuck in my head from my morning commute.

2) What did you want to be when you were ten?

Probably something involving the visual arts: an illustrator or an oil painter, but like Bob Ross style. Thank you PBS.

3) What's the best advice you've ever been given?

If you have the choice to go with the plural or the singular, go with the singular.

4) What's the last thing you were obsessed with?

Jasper Johns' numbers and letters paintings. Or that large spider in my bathtub that I thought I accidentally drowned when I turned the shower on yesterday. I skimmed her out of the water into my Power Puff Girls milk bottle and dumped her on the windowsill. When I got home she was all dried out and alive and still scary as hell. I opened the screen so she could crawl out. She had an egg sac.

5) What are you afraid of?

Despite the above remark, I love spiders. My biggest fear would probably be drowning or any form of asphyxiation. That includes claustrophobic situations involving people. Anything that steals air.
